INTERNATIONAL INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Description

This course provides an overview of the substantive content of, and legal authority for, international intellectual property rights, drawing on cases, treaties and materials in copyright, patent and trademark law. We will examine international and comparative law issues of major importance to modern IP practice, including obligations for IP protection arising under international public law, the emerging role of transnational private law in the acquisition and enforcement of IP rights, and the geopolitics of IP trade and harmonization.

Casebook, Supplement, and Additional Materials

The casebook is DINWOODIE ET AL., INTERNATIONAL INTELLECTUAL LAW AND POLICY (2nd ed. 2008), published by Lexis-Nexis. There is also a paper Documentary Supplement (“DS”) accompanying this casebook, which will be useful for you to have. Further required and supplementary materials will be posted on the course Web site, as announced in class.

Class Participation and Grading

The class will be divided into three rotating “on-call” groups, each of which will be assigned a number of units on the syllabus. I expect each unit to take 1.5-2 class sessions to complete. You may volunteer during any class session, and are strongly encouraged to do so. If you are on call but unprepared and wish to be spared being called on in class, you may email or speak to me before class and I will do my best to remember not to call on you.

Your participation grade will be A+, which will count for between 0% and 20% of your final grade, based on the overall quality of your assigned and unassigned participation, including your scribe essays. There will be a three-hour final examination, which will count for the remaining portion of your final grade, subject to the law school curve. The examination likely will consist of a short-response section and two or three questions of an issue-spotting variety.

Office Hours

Room 5088, 962-4116. Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 1-2:30; other times if my door is open; and by appointment. To reach me at other times, email is preferred. Do not rely on voicemail for time-sensitive matters.
